

Step 3: Add up to 3 courses to your lottery list.

You're now in the lottery! Congrats! You'll see all the Gen Ed courses on offer this term – not just the ones you've petitioned for. If a course has a plus sign next to it, that means you have successfully petitioned for it and may add it to your ranking list. Click the plus sign to move that course into your personalized ranking list.

Step 5: Register for your chosen course(s).

Check my.harvard the afternoon of Wednesday, August 30 to see which petitions have been approved and which have been denied. You'll see a red X (see image below for what this will look like) appear by courses you didn't get into and a green check by courses in which you're approved to enroll. Once you're approved for a course, you may complete the registration process. Be sure to register by the course registration deadline of 11:59 p.m. Thursday, August 31 – after that, your seat isn't guaranteed. Good luck!

Did I get a seat? I can't tell!

Orange clock after lottery results are released?
You petitioned again, but you didn't get in.

YES! You got in! Enroll if any or all holds are lifted!

Sorry, but you didn't get in via the lottery. Keep an eye on the course's Canvas site for more info in case seats open up.

NOTE: The red X will disappear after any update to your Crimson Cart (you validate it, you enroll in something, etc.), and it will be replaced by a "resubmit" option. This does not mean that you should resubmit for the lottery - it is just a function of the system. Therefore, if after the lottery has concluded (check for the update that the lottery is over on <https://gened.fas.harvard.edu/fall-2023>) you see anything other than a green check by your course in your Crimson Cart, you were not granted a seat in the course.
